

European Ethno-Nationalist and White Supremacy Groups

Key Findings

- European far-right ethno-nationalist groups have cast immigrants as a scapegoat for economic hardship faced by young Europeans. Rather than promote overt white supremacy, these groups denigrate minorities—particularly Muslim immigrants—as detrimental to European culture.
- Far-right political parties like Germany’s Alternative für Deutschland and Italy’s Lega Nord have been able to generate substantial popular support by promising to defend their respective countries against the cultural attacks of immigrants and foreign influences, and have consequently made gains in domestic parliamentary elections.
- Groups like Les Identitaires and its youth wing, Generation Identity, have renounced violence in favor of utilizing social media and public demonstrations to portray themselves as legitimate, mainstream movements protecting European culture. These groups have directly targeted Europe’s youth through social media and public demonstrations.
- Some U.S. neo-Nazi groups have created a European presence. Atomwaffen Division and other U.S.-based groups have inspired European offshoots such as the Feuerkrieg Division. The Nationalist Social Club has established a following in countries such as Germany and Bulgaria.
- Groups including Combat 18 and the Nordic Resistance Movement, which openly embrace neo-Nazi ideology and violent tactics, are still able to recruit for violent activities, despite the rise of non-violent, populist groups.

Executive Summary

More than 70 years after the defeat of Nazi Germany, ethno-nationalist and white supremacist movements in Europe continue to thrive. They include far-right political parties, neo-Nazi movements, and apolitical protest groups. Some groups openly espouse violent white supremacy, while others have propagated their radical stances under the guise of populism. Such populist groups claim that they are striving to protect average hardworking Europeans by preserving their livelihoods and heritages from economic and cultural threats posed by immigrants and ethnic minorities. Though not all of these groups directly link their ideologies to Nazism, their propaganda portrays immigrants and ethnic minorities in a similar manner to how Nazi propaganda portrayed Jews, blaming them for national economic troubles and depicting them as a serious threat to the broader national identity.

In a June 2018 speech, German Chancellor Angela Merkel recognized that the majority of refugees are victims, and that “escape and expulsion are part of our German and European history.”<sup>1</sup> Nonetheless, several far-right political parties in Europe have infused anti-immigrant and particularly anti-Muslim xenophobia into their party platforms through the concept of ethnonationalism—the idea that a nation should be composed of a single ethnicity. These parties postulate that hardworking European natives are suffering economic and cultural losses due to immigrants and ethnic minorities who want to replace national, religious, and cultural identities with foreign values. Ethno-nationalists also view multiculturalism as a code word for the destruction of the native national identity. For example, Hungary’s neo-fascist Jobbik political party rejects “the dead-end Western European multiculturalism” and has pledged to “defend our cultural identity developed over our history.”<sup>2</sup> Groups like Germany’s Alternative für Deutschland (AfD) political party lament the influx of Muslim immigrants, which they claim weakens the German culture and quality of life. AfD has gone so far as to claim that Islam is a danger to Germany.<sup>3</sup>

These far-right political parties have therefore been able to unite ethno-nationalism with populism by propagating the notion that ethno-nationalism serves the average hardworking individual and the broader national identity. Their propaganda campaigns have allowed them to generate substantial popular support and make gains in domestic elections. The AfD came in third in Germany’s September 2017 parliamentary elections.<sup>4</sup> In March 2018’s Italian parliamentary elections, the far-right, anti-immigrant Lega Nord (“Northern League”) party succeeded in becoming the third largest party in Italy’s parliament. League leader Matteo Salvini served as Italy’s interior minister from June 2018 until August 2019. In that role, he refused a migrant aid ship permission to dock in Italy and called for a national census to address “the Roma question.”<sup>5</sup> Both parties also view the European Union as a harmful foreign influence that has undermined the sovereignty of their respective nations.<sup>6</sup> Salvini has even derided the euro as a “German currency” and a “crime against humanity.”<sup>7</sup> Salvini continues to serve in Italy’s parliament.<sup>8</sup>

Some ethno-nationalist political movements have openly embraced the language and symbolism of the Nazi movement. In Hungary, Gabor Vona, the former chair of the far-right Jobbik, has blamed international Jewry for attempting to buy Hungary and interfere in its elections. Jobbik has also used the Nazi “Arrow Cross” to symbolize pride in Hungary’s Nazi past.<sup>9</sup> In 2014, a Hungarian court ruled that Jobbik may be referred to as “neo-Nazi” in Hungary.<sup>10</sup> Despite similarities in propaganda, however, not all of Europe’s far-right political movements have openly embraced links to the Nazi or neo-Nazi movements. Members of the French anti-immigrant Les Identitaires movement reject violence and consider themselves to be patriots defending European identity from cultural corruption imposed by Islamic mores.<sup>11</sup> Les Identitaires’ youth wing, Generation Identity (GI), has a presence across Europe and uses social media and popular demonstrations to propagate similar anti-Islamic notions and gain traction with young people.<sup>12</sup> In July 2020, Twitter suspended several GI-linked accounts during a purge of more than 50 white supremacist accounts.<sup>13</sup> France banned GI in March 2021.<sup>14</sup>

Les Identitaires and GI adhere to the identitarian ideology and its Great Replacement theory, which GI describes as “the process by which the indigenous European population is replaced by non-European migrants.”<sup>15</sup> Employing similar rhetoric, Brenton Tarrant, the white supremacist who allegedly killed 50 people at two New Zealand mosques on March 15, 2019, entitled his manifesto “The Great Replacement” and wrote about the “crisis of mass immigration and ... assault on the European people that, if not combated, will ultimately result in the complete racial and cultural replacement of the European people.”<sup>16</sup> The New Zealand attack was a manifestation of the identitarian ideology and its view of a broader white European ethnic identity prevalent in the Western world that transcends national borders. While groups like GI claim to reject violence, they promote an ideology that has led directly toward it.

Some of Europe’s historically non-political, violent far-right groups have not only embraced similar populist language to the ethno-nationalist political movements, but also continue to espouse openly racist concepts and employ violence to achieve their visions of an ethnically homogenous state. Combat 18, a violent neo-Nazi skinhead group founded in the United Kingdom in 1992, currently has a presence in at least 18 countries.<sup>17</sup> Similar to ISIS in its aim to create a Muslim-only caliphate, the group encourages supporters to carry out lone-wolf terrorist attacks as part of its greater aim to create white-only countries through violence.<sup>18</sup> National Action is another group of young far-right extremists that, in 2016, became the first far-right group to be labeled as a terrorist organization in the United Kingdom after it praised the murder of a parliamentarian.<sup>19</sup> The group, whose members believe that “Britain should be for British people,”<sup>20</sup> reportedly operates training camps where recruits learn hand-to-hand combat in preparation for “white jihad.”<sup>21</sup> Not only do these violent white supremacist groups employ similar strategies to some of the most prominent Islamic terror groups, but they are also motivated to pursue the radical end goal of an ethnically or culturally homogenous state due to similar concerns that their identity and way of life are under threat.

In addition to homegrown ethno-nationalist movements, Europe has also seen a rise of far-right networks affiliated with U.S. neo-Nazi groups. For example, U.S.-based Atomwaffen Division (AWD), now known as National Socialist Order,<sup>22</sup> has established a network in Germany.<sup>23</sup> Additionally, the Feuerkrieg Division was created as a European, neo-Nazi offshoot of AWD.<sup>24</sup> The U.S.-based Nationalist Social Club (NSC) is also active in Germany, Hungary, and Bulgaria.<sup>25</sup> Modern communication methods make it easy for these groups to expand their reach across international borders. Further, groups such as NSC have no formal hierarchy and allow chapters latitude to interpret their own guidelines around the core principle of white supremacy. This independence has made it easier for these groups to expand their membership without a need for official oversight or investment of resources.

The Counter Extremism Project (CEP)'s European Ethno-Nationalist and White Supremacy Groups report outlines the history, propaganda, violent activities, and notable rhetoric of some of the continent's most active ethno-nationalist and white supremacist groups.

Alternative für Deutschland

- Summary: The far-right Alternative für Deutschland (Alternative for Germany or AfD) political party has increased in popularity across Germany on anti-immigrant and anti-Islam platforms. The party blames immigrants in general and Muslim immigrants in particular for weakening the German culture and way of life.<sup>26</sup> The party's manifesto declares forthrightly that "Islam does not belong to Germany."<sup>27</sup> In Germany's September 2017 parliamentary elections, AfD became the third largest political party in the German parliament.<sup>28</sup> In March 2021, Germany's domestic intelligence service placed the AfD under surveillance for suspicions of promoting extremism. A German court soon after suspended the surveillance program while AfD mounts a legal challenge.<sup>29</sup> If surveillance is approved, it would mark the first time a post-war German political party represented in the federal parliament is subjected to such a high level of scrutiny.<sup>30</sup>

A group of economists established AfD in 2013 out of concern that the European Union's economic policies were weakening Germany's economy. In 2014, AfD won 10 percent of the vote in local elections in the German state of Saxony. Co-founder Bernd Lucke quit in July 2015, declaring that the party had become xenophobic. Later that month, Frauke Petry took over as the party's leader and shifted its focus from economics to immigration.<sup>31</sup> In 2016, Petry stated her belief that German police should, "if necessary," shoot at illegal immigrants trying to enter Germany, and AfD deputy leader Alexander Gauland stated that most Germans "wouldn't want to live next door" to German soccer player Jérôme Boateng because his father is Ghanaian.<sup>32</sup> That June, German Deputy Chancellor Sigmar Gabriel labeled the AfD as xenophobic and compared its positions to those of the Nazi party. At the time, the AfD was represented in eight out of 16 of Germany's state assemblies.<sup>33</sup>

AfD has specifically targeted Islam. The party's 2016 Manifesto for Germany denigrated Islam as foreign to Germany society and called for its restriction. It sought to distinguish between "law-abiding and well-integrated" Muslims in Germany who are "accepted and valued members" of German society and Islam as a whole, which "does not belong to Germany."<sup>34</sup> The manifesto further condemned the "ever-increasing number of Muslims in the country...as a danger to our state, our society, and our values."<sup>35</sup>

Although Petry shifted AfD's focus from economics to immigration, the party has maintained its belief that the European Union has been economically detrimental to Germany. According to AfD's 2016 Manifesto for Germany, the core treaties of the European Union have undermined Germany's sovereignty. AfD accuses a "small and powerful elite within the political parties" of controlling Germany's government and ceding power to the European Union.<sup>36</sup> Much like its anti-immigration stance, AfD's aversion to the European Union suggests an overarching fear of the deterioration of the German identity.

While AfD's rhetoric has largely focused on Islam, the group has also targeted Germany's Jewish community. AfD has rejected ritual circumcision—practiced by both religious communities—as a "serious violation of fundamental rights."<sup>37</sup> In a January 2017 address to an AfD youth group, senior AfD leader Björn Höcke condemned Germany's ongoing commemorations of the Holocaust and called for "a 180-degree reversal on the politics of remembrance."<sup>38</sup>

Petry resigned from the party shortly after the September 2017 elections because of concerns over "how the AfD is likely to develop."<sup>39</sup> Following AfD's third-place victory in Germany's September 2017 elections, AfD remained outside the governing coalition, making it Germany's main opposition party.<sup>40</sup> In June 2018, a poll in the Bild am Sonntag newspaper recorded a 16 percent approval for AfD, its highest rating ever in the newspaper's poll. The poll came as the governing coalition faced a crisis over immigration policies.<sup>41</sup>

In March 2020, Germany's domestic intelligence agency labeled the AfD faction known as Flügel ("wing") as a threat to the country's democratic order. The agency, Bundesamt für Verfassungsschutz (BfV), also announced that it would place Flügel under systematic surveillance, allowing the BfV to recruit informants, keep personal data on file, and monitor phone calls.<sup>42</sup> The head of AfD in the German state of Thuringia, Björn Höcke, leads the extremist wing. Flügel commands strong support in eastern Germany and has an estimated 7,000 members, representing approximately 20 percent of AfD's overall membership.<sup>43</sup> According to a BfV official, the increased scrutiny comes as the faction is believed to be uniting far-right extremist groups, including neo-Nazis, and coordinating online.<sup>44</sup> On March 20, 2020, AfD's executive committee voted to dissolve Flügel by April 30, 2020, fearing the faction could bring increased scrutiny to the entire party.<sup>45</sup> In May, AfD co-chair Jörg Meuthen pressured AfD's central committee to annul the membership of Flügel leader Andreas Kalbitz. Meuthen has since faced rebuke from AfD members for calling for a division between the western and eastern factions in order to separate out the far right. In June 2020, Meuthen called for a "firewall" against far-right extremism in AfD.<sup>46</sup>

In April 2020, AfD suspended parliamentary spokesman Christian Lueth after he described himself as a fascist. The party fired Lueth that September after he suggested earlier in the year that migrants to Germany could be shot or gassed.<sup>47</sup> In January 2021, Germany's Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution (BfV) intelligence agency began debating whether to place AfD under surveillance for posing a threat to democracy.<sup>48</sup> On January 12, the BfV in Saxony-Anhalt approved a decision to place the regional branch of AfD under surveillance.<sup>49</sup> The BfV conducted a two-year investigation on the AfD's activities in order to determine whether the party should be labeled a "suspected case" for its links to right-wing extremism.<sup>50</sup> In February, an administrative court in Cologne ruled the BfV could investigate the AfD for extremism. On March 3, 2021, German media reported the BfV had placed the AfD under surveillance, allowing the organization to tap AfD members' phones and other communications and monitor their movements. The BfV would neither confirm nor deny the reports, purportedly because of an AfD legal challenge. AfD members condemned the decision as purely political.<sup>51</sup> On March 5, a German court halted the surveillance program and said German authorities must first allow the AfD to conclude a legal challenge.<sup>52</sup> AfD continues to

COUNTER EXTREMISM PROJECT

- Recruitment and Propaganda: AfD's propaganda focuses on the restoration of German culture and sovereignty, both of which the party believes have been weakened by an influx of immigrants and the open-border and economic policies of the European Union. Its plans to restore German sovereignty and restrict Islam in Germany are outlined in its 2016 Manifesto for Germany.<sup>62</sup>

The AfD maintains a social media presence on Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, and Instagram. As of March 3, 2021, AfD had 510,849 likes on Facebook, an increase from 501,726 likes on June 29, 2020.<sup>63</sup> AfD had 167,400 Twitter followers as of March 3, 2021, increasing from 160,000 on June 29, 2020. The AfD's Twitter page posts in German while its Facebook page posts in German and English.<sup>64</sup> AfD's YouTube channel had more than 98,000 subscribers on March 3, 2021, up from 82,200 subscribers on June 29, 2020, and 33,812 as of March 19, 2019. The channel hosted more than 542 videos that had drawn more than 21 million views.<sup>65</sup> AfD's Instagram account had 95,400 followers on March 3, 2021, up from more than 83,000 followers in June 2020.<sup>66</sup>

- Rhetoric:

Blood & Honour

Summary: Blood & Honour (B&H) is a neo-Nazi skinhead group that originated in England in 1987 from the skinhead music scene. The group promotes white-power ideology through the proliferation of music festivals and recordings.<sup>72</sup> B&H claims to be a “musical based resistance network” that acts as a “global confederacy of like-minded freedom fighters.”<sup>73</sup> British skinhead and singer Ian Stuart Donaldson founded the group with Nicky Crane in 1987 and named it after the motto of the Hitler Youth movement in Nazi Germany.<sup>74</sup> Blood and Honour was also the name of a song performed by Donaldson’s white-power band, Skrewdriver. According to B&H, the 1985 song became “an anthem then flagship for generations of people to come who were far sighted enough to see the abyss our people, culture and future faced if we continued on the road we were taking.”<sup>75</sup>

Donaldson died in a 1993 car crash, but B&H has continued to spread across Europe and into the United States. Crane died of an AIDS-related illness two months after Donaldson’s death. B&H continues to hold annual music festivals to celebrate white power and memorialize Donaldson.<sup>76</sup> B&H has chapters across the world, including in the United Kingdom, Ukraine, Lithuania, Poland, Belgium, and Serbia. Authorities discovered B&H graffiti in Bosnia in February 2020.<sup>77</sup> B&H has been banned in several

B&H is closely associated with the violent neo-Nazi group Combat 18, which originated as an armed faction of B&H. Donaldson's death caused a rift in B&H between those committed to promoting white power through music and those who sought out more violent methods.<sup>83</sup> Combat 18 is still closely linked to B&H. When the Canadian government banned both groups in 2019, it labeled Combat 18 the "armed branch" of B&H.<sup>84</sup>

In June 2019, Canada designated B&H and Combat 18 as terrorist groups. It was the first time Canada designated far-right groups.<sup>91</sup> Facebook banned B&H the following day. According to Canadian group Organization for the Prevention of Violence, B&H's presence in Canada reached 60 to 70 members between 2016 and 2017, but the group failed to expand beyond Alberta and its membership began to decline after 2017.<sup>92</sup> Germany, Russia, and Spain have also banned B&H.<sup>93</sup>

COUNTER EXTREMISM PROJECT

Official B&H chapters use the group's "Sign of the Brotherhood": a grinning skull-and-crossbones imposed over red, white, and black diamond on top of a triskelion. The triskelion is an ancient symbol from pre-Christian Europe comprising three curved or jointed segments spiraling from a common center. The red in the diamond represents the "sacred blood" and those who have died defending it, while the black represents courage and the white represents the white ethnicity.<sup>99</sup> B&H commonly uses a banner with the words "Blood" and "Honour" separated by a triskelion. B&H propaganda may also reference the original German phrase, "Blut und Ehre." B&H members frequently use the numerals 2 and 8 or 28 representing the alphanumeric equivalent of the letters B and H.<sup>100</sup>

B&H maintains its own prisoner support network, the White Cross, to aid those who have been arrested, charged, and sentenced for crimes related to B&H. The support network is self-funded to ensure "no 28 prisoner is left behind or forgotten in their times of need."<sup>101</sup>

- Violent Activities: Combat 18 is the violent offshoot of B&H. While B&H is affiliated with acts of vandalism and espousing a racist ideology, Combat 18 is primarily responsible for violent activities associated with B&H, which itself focuses more on spreading neo-Nazi propaganda through music festivals.<sup>102</sup> Nonetheless, B&H members do arm themselves and promote violence.<sup>103</sup> When Russia banned the group in 2012, it linked B&H to several terrorist attacks.<sup>104</sup> In Australia, authorities have linked B&H to death threats against immigration supporters.<sup>105</sup> Canadian police have also linked B&H to multiple violent attacks.<sup>106</sup>

- Ian Stuart Donaldson, B&H homepage, undated: “To achieve all of this we, and our European comrades, must above all have faith. Our enemies are strong, and presently we are relatively weak in numbers, but unbeatable in spirit. We must realize that we, and our enemies, are engaged in a struggle for the survival of the European races. If we fail we will be destroyed along with European civilization; and we must accept in our hearts, that if victory is eventually ours we must deal with our enemies in the most ruthless fashion. If we do not destroy their cancer at the root we will have to face up to its reincarnation at a later stage. We must have faith in this, our battle to the death.”<sup>110</sup>

Combat 18

- Summary: Combat 18 (a.k.a. C18, 318, nicknamed “Terror Machine”) is a neo-Nazi group that seeks to create white-only countries through violence. The group was established in the United Kingdom and is now present in at least 18 countries worldwide. The “18” in the name refers to the first and eighth letters of the English alphabet, A and H, for Adolf Hitler. Combat 18 was founded in 1992 by Paul “Charlie” Sargent. It largely drew its membership from white supremacists associated with the Chelsea Headhunters soccer hooligan gang and the British neo-Nazi record label and political organization Blood and Honour (B&H).<sup>111</sup>

COUNTER EXTREMISM PROJECT

According to the group's propaganda magazine Combat 18, Combat 18's aims are to create all-white countries by shipping "all non-whites back to Africa, Asia, Arabia, whether alive or in body bags," execute "all Queers" and "white race mixers," "weed out all Jews in the government, the media, the arts, the professions," execute "all Jews who have actively helped to damage the white race," and "put into camps the rest until we find a final solution to the eternal Jew."<sup>112</sup> Over time, Combat 18 has ceased functioning as a centralized organization. Instead, the group's ideology and brand have become a transnational rallying call for neo-Nazi action.<sup>113</sup> Combat 18 encourages the creation of independent cells and lone-wolf terrorism under the slogan "whatever it takes!"<sup>114</sup> While the group may have once had an official roster, supporters of Combat 18 now claim that membership is achieved through participation in violent neo-Nazi activities.<sup>115</sup>

Combat 18 refuses to participate in electoral politics, instead directly appealing to potential recruits through fliers, stickers, magazines, music distribution, and the use of violence. The organization is banned in Germany, and Combat 18 members in the United Kingdom are barred from working in law enforcement or corrections facilities.<sup>116</sup> In the 1990s, Combat 18 members allegedly made ties with the loyalist paramilitary group Ulster Defence Association in Northern Ireland.<sup>117</sup> Combat 18 has also been linked to Aryan Strike Force 318 (ASF318) in the eastern United States, the Racial Volunteer Force (RVF) in Britain, and the National Socialist Underground (NSU) in Germany.<sup>118</sup>

Combat 18 has been promoted by bands in the neo-Nazi skinhead rock music scene. Numerous white power skinhead bands in Germany, Russia, Poland, the United Kingdom, Serbia, Slovakia, Switzerland, and the United States have recorded songs praising Combat 18. Several online neo-Nazi record stores sell merchandise with the group's logo and slogan.<sup>127</sup>

Europol has warned that Combat 18 poses a threat across Europe.<sup>128</sup> Combat 18 has remained particularly active in the United Kingdom, Germany, and Greece. - Recruitment and Propaganda: Historically, Combat 18 has recruited from a pool of neo-Nazi skinheads and soccer hooligans, particularly from the B&H network and far-right skinhead music scene.<sup>138</sup>

Combat 18 has a minimal Internet presence but some websites and social media pages for the group do exist. A Greek cell has used Facebook to coordinate attacks. A Czech cell that operated from 2011 to 2012 maintained a website to spread its message and recruit.<sup>139</sup>

Combat 18's National Socialist Political Soldiers Handbook is a guidebook for prospective recruits. In addition to the group's creed, the manual offers advice on physical fitness, recruiting, evading detection and capture, and intentionally vague "direct action," which the handbook describes as "the disruption and elimination of all that is detrimental to our race and opposed to the cause of National Socialism."<sup>140</sup> The text is available online and through Internet retailers.<sup>141</sup>

- Violent Activities:

- From 2010 to 2018, Greek authorities accused Combat 18 Hellas of committing more than 30 attacks with bombs or gasoline on left-wing facilities, a migrant dwelling, and Jewish memorials.<sup>142</sup> Greek police claimed that the cell was planning a large bombing prior to the arrest of its members.<sup>143</sup>
- On February 4, 2010, two alleged members of Combat 18 in Australia were arrested for shooting at the roof of a mosque in Perth with a .303 rifle.<sup>144</sup> Bradley Neil Trappitt was fined more than AU$9,000, and Jacob Marshall Holt was sentenced to seven months in jail.<sup>145</sup> The police accused both men of belonging to Combat 18.<sup>146</sup>
- On April 18-19, 2009, four men in the Czech Republic threw Molotov cocktails into the home of a Romani family in Vitkov. Three people were injured, including a 2-year-old girl who suffered extensive burns. Václav Cojocar, Jaromír Lukeš, Ivo Müller, and David Vaculík were charged with perpetrating the attack, which coincided with Adolf Hitler's birthday.<sup>147</sup> Vaculík was accused by the prosecution of being a member of Combat 18 and reportedly had a "C18" tattoo on his chest.<sup>148</sup> Lukeš, Müller, and Vaculík were each sentenced to 22 years in prison. Cojocar was sentenced to 20 years.<sup>149</sup>
- In May 2001, Combat 18 physically assaulted British Asians and their shops in Oldham, England, with the aim of provoking retaliatory violence. Combat 18 members also distributed information on making incendiary devices as well as the personal information of anti-racist activists in the Oldham area.<sup>150</sup>
- In January 1997, three Danish Combat 18 members were arrested and found guilty of sending a letter bomb to British celebrity Sharron Davies.<sup>151</sup> During a

In this way, if your plan fails for whatever reason you have only yourself to blame. If your plan succeeds your courage will speak for itself.”<sup>160</sup>

English Defence League (EDL)

- Summary: The English Defence League (EDL) believes that British society is under attack by Muslim extremists. Since 2009, the group has held what British media has routinely referred to as “aggressive rallies” across England.<sup>161</sup> The EDL claims to stand for English rights, democracy, and rule of law. Concurrently, the group believes it is a leader in “the struggle against global Islamification.”<sup>162</sup>

The EDL equates illegal immigration with an invasion. It blames Muslim immigrants for importing a culture of terrorism into England and raping English women, a phenomenon that it has dubbed “rape jihad.”<sup>163</sup> The EDL believes that rape jihad is ingrained in Islamic religious texts and foundation.<sup>164</sup> The EDL blames the broader Muslim community for a list of offenses, including denigration and oppression of women, organized sexual abuse of children, support of terrorism, female genital mutilation, honor killings, homophobia, racism, anti-Semitism, and intolerance of non-Muslims.<sup>165</sup>

The EDL was co-founded in Luton, England, in 2009 by Kevin Carroll and Stephen Christopher Yaxley-Lennon, a.k.a. Tommy Robinson.<sup>166</sup> According to Robinson, the two men formed EDL in response to the threat of “militant Islam.”<sup>167</sup> In 2011, EDL members joined vigilante patrols in southeast London and clashed with police.<sup>168</sup> Matthew Collins of the British NGO Hope Not Hate told British media in 2013 that the EDL had become increasingly fascist in its protests and “went from being concerned about extremism, to them radicalising themselves.”<sup>169</sup> A 2013 poll found that 61 percent of Britons believed that groups like the EDL made terrorism more likely.<sup>170</sup>

In October 2013, Robinson and Carroll quit the group, citing concerns of growing far-right extremism within the EDL.<sup>171</sup> Robinson said he was persuaded to leave the group by the British anti-extremism think tank Quilliam, but later said that Quilliam paid him £2,000 a month to make the claim.<sup>172</sup> Twitter permanently banned Robinson in March 2018, reportedly because of violations of the company’s “hateful conduct” policy.<sup>173</sup> In May 2018, Robinson was sentenced to 13 months in prison for contempt of court after filming outside of a jury trial.<sup>174</sup> The following month, thousands of far-right supporters of Robinson marched through London.<sup>175</sup>

British counter-extremism group Hope Not Hate claims that the EDL has suffered a “lethargic and alcohol-fuelled almost comic collapse.”<sup>176</sup> Nonetheless, the group maintains its active social media presence and continues to stage demonstrations across the country.

The EDL maintains 17 regional chapters throughout England, according to the group's website. After Facebook suspended the EDL's accounts in April 2019, the group recommended members use its website forum to connect with each other while the EDL reorganized.<sup>180</sup> The EDL's main Facebook page had 2,728 likes as of March 19, 2019.<sup>181</sup>

- Recruitment and Propaganda: The EDL maintained Facebook pages for each of its 17 regional chapters. Facebook suspended the EDL in April 2019.<sup>182</sup> After Twitter suspended the EDL's account in 2017, the group created an account on Gab, a social network populated by far-right groups.<sup>183</sup> The EDL's website also had a forum available to registered members.<sup>184</sup> The EDL also asked for donations through PayPal. PayPal has since suspended the group's account.<sup>185</sup> PayPal suspended Robinson in November

Feuerkrieg Division

- Summary: Feuerkrieg Division (“Firewar Division” or FKD) was a European, neo-Nazi offshoot of the U.S.-based Atomwaffen Division.<sup>200</sup> FKD was founded in 2018 and primarily existed online. Its members subscribed to an accelerationist philosophy that called for a race war to purge society of undesirables and eliminate existing political and social systems.<sup>201</sup>

In leaked chat transcripts, FKD members discussed plans for violent attacks and their hopes of a coming civil war. Members discussed how to build bombs and other methods of violent attack. In 2019, in retaliation for the arrest of one of its members in the United Kingdom, the group publicly released a list of police buildings and an image of a senior police officer with a gun to his head. FKD declared the officer to be a race traitor and called for attacks.<sup>202</sup> As the COVID-19 pandemic took hold in the United States in February 2020, FKD members spoke of the need to spread the virus among Black and

- In October 2019, an alleged FKD member in Lithuania left a bomb outside an office building in Vilnius. The bomb failed to explode, and police arrested the teenage suspect after finding bomb-making materials in his home.<sup>218</sup>
- In September 2019, U.S. Army Private First-Class Jarrett William Smith provided information on explosives to an undercover FBI agent. Smith admitted in a plea agreement to disseminating instructions on building bombs. Smith told the agent he distributed explosives information “for the glory of his Satanist religion,” and sought to create societal chaos. Smith is reportedly involved with FKD at the time of his arrest. The group expressed “consternation” over Smith’s arrest on Telegram.<sup>219</sup>
- On August 8, 2019, the FBI-led Joint Terrorism Task Force arrested Connor Climo after finding bomb components in his Las Vegas residence. Between May 2019 and July 15, 2019, Climo communicated online with FKD members about setting fire to a Las Vegas synagogue, and making Molotov cocktails and improvised explosive devices. Climo pleaded guilty in February 2020 to possession of bomb-making materials and plotting to attack Jewish and LGBT targets.<sup>220</sup>

Generation Identity

- Summary: Generation Identity (GI) is a pan-European youth movement that originated in France in 2012 as the youth wing of France’s Les Identitaires movement.<sup>229</sup> GI has since spread to five other regions in Europe. Its newest branch claims to span the United Kingdom and Ireland, which the group claims are “inflicted by extreme multiculturalism.”<sup>230</sup> GI believes that white Europeans are falling victim to “the Great Replacement”—“the process by which the indigenous European population is replaced by non-European migrants.”<sup>231</sup> GI seeks to stop what it views as the Islamization of Europe, stop globalization, and reverse the “Great Replacement.”<sup>232</sup>

To realize these goals, the network has issued five demands: preserve European ethno-cultural identity, defend freedom of speech and opinion against far-left attacks, repatriate illegal immigrants to their countries of origin, promote regional development in African countries to stem emigration, and secure national borders.<sup>233</sup> GI claims it does not “provide a platform for any kind of national-socialist or fascist groups or views.”<sup>234</sup> Nonetheless, GI’s German chapter, Identitäre Bewegung, has reportedly marched alongside neo-Nazi skinheads, and the German neo-Nazi political party NPD has held up GI’s tactics as a model.<sup>235</sup> Austrian GI leader Martin Sellner has also professed the group’s dedication to non-violence,<sup>236</sup> but GI has created militaristic training camps across Europe that feature combat training as well as anti-Islamic and anti-immigrant speakers.<sup>237</sup>

GI has staged numerous public protests, beginning with occupying the site of a future mosque in Poitiers, France, in October 2012.<sup>238</sup> Several of the perpetrators were sentenced to a year in prison in December 2017 on charges of incitement to discrimination and property destruction related to this incident.<sup>239</sup> In March 2016, police arrested 14 GI members after they lit tires on fire during a protest near refugee camps in Calais, France. The GI protesters claimed that they were defending Europe from a “migrant invasion.”<sup>240</sup> In October 2017, GI’s British chapter unrolled a giant banner over London’s Westminster Bridge reading “Defend London: Stop Islamisation.”<sup>241</sup>

GI accuses humanitarian NGOs of smuggling millions of people to Europe from Africa. It created a spinoff group, Defend Europe, in order to stop what it believes to be illegal human trafficking by refugee aid organizations.<sup>242</sup> In August 2017, Defend Europe members chartered a ship in order to block the transport of immigrants from Libya. They draped it with a giant banner declaring “No Way—You Will Not Make Europe Home.”<sup>243</sup> GI claimed that it received $100,000 in donations to pay for the charter.<sup>244</sup> However, the ship experienced mechanical issues and the GI crew had to be rescued by a ship belonging to the German refugee aid organization Sea Eye.<sup>245</sup> Human rights advocates accuse GI activists of delaying necessary humanitarian rescues with such tactics.<sup>246</sup>

“conducive to the public good.”<sup>247</sup> The following month, British authorities again denied Sellner entry into the country to attend a GI “European Reunion” conference.<sup>248</sup> Twitter suspended multiple GI accounts in July 2020, including Sellner’s.<sup>249</sup>

Though GI does not specifically promote violence, French authorities have prosecuted individual GI members for violent rhetoric and investigated the group for promoting hatred. In December 2020, French authorities convicted three GI members of incitement to terrorism, incitement to religious hatred, and assault after they were filmed discussing their wishes to attack Arabs and then assaulting a 13-year-old Muslim girl.<sup>250</sup> Soon after, French authorities began investigating GI on suspicion of incitement of racial hatred. On February 11, 2021, the French Interior Ministry sent a letter to GI accusing it of “openly hateful rhetoric.”<sup>251</sup> French Interior Minister Gerald Darmanin followed up on the letter with plans to ban GI within the coming weeks. French law allows the Council of Ministers to ban organizations by decree if they incite discrimination, hatred, or violence against a person or a group of people because of ethnicity, nationality, or religion, or if they justify or encourage such discrimination, hatred, or violence. The Interior Ministry cited France’s security code forbidding “combat or private militia groups” and groups that “provoke discrimination, hate or (racial) violence.”<sup>252</sup> Approximately 200 people rallied in Paris on February 20 to protest the ban.<sup>253</sup> The ban went into effect on March 3, 2021, after approval from France’s Council of Ministers. GI’s leaders intend to launch a legal fight against the dissolution.<sup>254</sup>

- Recruitment and Propaganda: GI primarily targets European men and women in their 20s and 30s. The movement has a subgroup called Generation Identity Support Group (GISG), targeted to people over 40 to “help us protect our valuable heritage. A heritage that you have handed down.”<sup>268</sup> GI hosts online stores that sell T-shirts and stickers with slogans such as “Stop the Great Replacement,” “Chassons les Islamistes!” (“Hunt the Islamists”), “On est chez nous” (“We are home”), and “Defend Europe,” and the Identitaires magazine, which reports on the activities of GI and Les Identitaires.<sup>269</sup>

On April 14, 2018, GI hosted its “European Reunion” conference in England, which reportedly drew attendees from across Europe.<sup>270</sup> GI livestreamed the conference on Facebook, drawing more than 2,000 views.<sup>271</sup> The group claimed that the event was a success, but Hope Not Hate and anti-fascist Twitter account Anti-Fascist Intel alleged that organizers were forced to relocate the conference from London to Kent the day before and that prominent speakers, including Sellner, were unable to attend.<sup>272</sup>

GI relies on its social media presence to recruit and fundraise. The Defend Europe YouTube channel includes financial appeals for future protests.<sup>273</sup> YouTube hosts multiple versions of GI’s 2012 “Declaration of War” video, in which French youth declare their disenchantment with values of their parents’ generation—such as diversity, sexual liberation, and social security—and declare “war” against “anti-white racism.”<sup>274</sup>

Sellner also created a mobile app called Patriot Peer to connect GI members and sympathizers. After the crowdfunding website Kickstarter banned the app, Sellner turned to YouTube to raise support.<sup>275</sup> Sellner’s YouTube page had 25,311 subscribers and hosted more than 140 videos as of July 3, 2018.<sup>276</sup> Both Sellner’s Twitter and YouTube accounts were suspended in July 2020.<sup>277</sup>

In June 2018, Facebook finally took action to permanently ban GI from its platforms, citing violations of Facebook’s policies on extremism and hate speech.<sup>278</sup> With the exception of the Flanders chapter’s page, all of GI’s Facebook and Instagram accounts appeared to have been removed as of July 3, 2018. The Defend Europe website had also been removed as of the same date, though its YouTube page remained active. Related GI Twitter accounts remained active. GI UK & Ireland’s website was offline as of April 2020 and the group had migrated to a BitChute account.<sup>279</sup> Twitter also suspended Sellner’s account and multiple other GI accounts as part of a purge of more than 50 white nationalist accounts in July 2020.<sup>280</sup> GI’s Defend Europe YouTube account remained online as of July 14, 2020.<sup>281</sup>

Golden Dawn

- Summary: Golden Dawn is a neo-Nazi party that rose from a marginal role in Greek politics to become the third-largest political force in Greece in 2014. Golden Dawn party members have been involved in hundreds of acts of violence against immigrants and leftists across Greece.<sup>288</sup> Golden Dawn openly advocates national socialism, racism, and anti-Semitism, and has adorned its publications and rallies with images of Adolf Hitler, the Third Reich, Rudolf Hess, the Waffen SS, and the swastika.<sup>289</sup> In 1987, Golden Dawn leader Nikolaos Michaloliakos wrote in the party magazine, “We are the faithful soldiers of the National Socialist idea and nothing else.”<sup>290</sup>

Golden Dawn campaigns on a strongly anti-immigration platform. The party blames the “millions of illegal immigrants” and leftist political parties for what it deems “the dissolution of the Greek society.”<sup>291</sup> Golden Dawn seeks “a Greece that belongs to the Greeks.”<sup>292</sup> In a 2012 interview, two Golden Dawn parliamentarians demanded that only people with “Greek blood” should be allowed to participate in elections.<sup>293</sup>

In recent years, Golden Dawn has sought to soften its image in order to appeal to a wider spectrum of voters. When Golden Dawn organizes public events, it now rejects the neo-Nazi label and generally prefers to present itself as a “nationalist” and “patriotic” organization.<sup>294</sup> Golden Dawn leaders have claimed that prior Golden Dawn references to the Nazi Party were “youthful indiscretions.”<sup>295</sup> During the 2014 European elections, many of Golden Dawn’s candidates were middle-class professionals, including university professors, lawyers, surgeons, businesspeople, and a former NATO commander.<sup>296</sup> In January 2015, Golden Dawn won 17 seats in Greece’s parliamentary elections to become the country’s third largest party.<sup>297</sup> Golden Dawn failed to secure the minimum 3 percent threshold in Greece’s July 2019 parliamentary elections.<sup>298</sup>

Nonetheless, Golden Dawn members continue to court controversy over their far-right positions and violent actions. The Greek parliament temporarily banned Golden Dawn in June 2018 after Golden Dawn MP Konstantinos Barbarousis called for a military coup. Barbarousis was subsequently arrested on treason charges.<sup>299</sup> One ex-member of Golden Dawn has claimed that the party discussed plots to overthrow the Greek government Within Greece, Golden Dawn is heavily focused on recruiting from Greek's youth population. Golden Dawn has a youth club, Galazia Stratia (Blue Army). The group has used bribes, such as cell phones, to recruit younger members.<sup>310</sup> The group has also used gyms, athletic clubs, and martial arts clubs as grounds for recruiting youths. It actively recruits at high schools, and even stands accused of launching an indoctrination course called "National Awakening," aimed at children ages 6-10.<sup>311</sup> According to Greece's education ministry, the course, which taught subjects such as history and religion, aimed to instill a sense of Greek supremacy in youth. The competing Greek party Syriza accused Golden Dawn of "brainwashing little tots with Nazi propaganda."<sup>312</sup>

As of June 29, 2020, Golden Dawn's YouTube page had 19,700 subscribers, an increase of more than 3,300 subscribers since July 3, 2018. The account also hosted more than 600 videos and had received more than 14 million views since October 2012.<sup>313</sup> In contrast, Golden Dawn New York's YouTube page hosted only seven videos and has only 614 subscribers as of June 29, 2020, decreasing from 663 on March 19, 2019.<sup>314</sup> Golden Dawn's Twitter account had been suspended as of June 24, 2018.<sup>315</sup>

- Violent Activities: During a 2015 trial of Golden Dawn members in Greece, prosecutors pointed to evidence of military training and attack battalions that, according to one ex-member of Golden Dawn, were preparing "to overthrow the Greek government."<sup>316</sup> Evidence from the prosecutors showed Golden Dawn members in military clothing wielding knives, swords, handguns, rifles, and even a bazooka.<sup>317</sup> According to the ex-member of Golden Dawn, "They kept telling us that we'll break into the parliament with tanks."<sup>318</sup>

Jobbik rejects “the dead-end Western European multiculturalism” and has pledged to “defend our cultural identity developed over our history.”<sup>334</sup>

A group of nationalist Catholic and Protestant university students established the precursor to Jobbik, the Right-Wing Youth Association, as an alternative to the nationalist, far-right Hungarian Justice and Life Party (MEIP) after MEIP failed to win any seats in the 2002 election.<sup>335</sup> Jobbik was officially founded in October 2003 as a political party.<sup>336</sup> In Hungary’s April 2018 parliamentary elections, Jobbik came in a distant second to the ruling Fidesz party, earning 19 percent of the vote to receive 26 seats. This marked a 1 percent decrease in votes for Jobbik from the 2014 election but an increase of three additional seats.<sup>337</sup>

Jobbik seeks the “reunification” of the Hungarian nation and a revision of the 1920 Treaty of Trianon, the post-World War I peace treaty between the Allied states and the Kingdom of Hungary that determined the borders of present-day Hungary.<sup>338</sup> In addition to a purported Jewish threat, Jobbik believes that the “Gypsies” are Hungary’s largest problem because of “their extremely disproportionate crime rate and indolence.”<sup>339</sup>

- Recruitment and Propaganda: Jobbik claims to represent the Hungarian people and seeks to restore a sense of nationalism that the party believes had been destroyed under Hungary's former communist regime.<sup>344</sup>

A Hungarian court ruled in January 2014 that Jobbik may be referred to as “neo-Nazi” in Hungary because of its rhetoric.<sup>345</sup> In 2008, Jobbik Chairman Gabor Vona claimed in an interview with a German neo-Nazi journal that “organized Jewry” would try to interfere in the internal affairs of Hungary. He cited “statements of the Jews in Hungary and of international Jewry that the [Hungarian] guard stands in their way and that they want to buy whole Hungary.” Jobbik’s blatant use of the Nazi “Arrow Cross” suggests Jobbik’s pride in Hungary’s Nazi past.<sup>346</sup>

Jobbik maintains a social media presence. As of June 29, 2020, the group’s Twitter account had 8,050 followers, a decrease from the 8,787 followers it had on July 3, 2018.<sup>347</sup> Jobbik’s Facebook account had 5,310 followers as of July 3, 2018.<sup>348</sup> Jobbik’s Facebook account has since been shut down.

- Violent Activities: In August 2007, Jobbik created the paramilitary organization Magyar Garda (“Hungarian Guard”) to “carry out the real change of regime and to rescue Hungarians,” according to Vona.<sup>349</sup> According to the U.S. Department of State, the guards wore the uniforms of Hungary’s World War II fascist government and pledged to defend the country from “bloodsuckers.”<sup>350</sup> Hungary’s Metropolitan Court of Appeal disbanded the Hungarian Guard in 2009 for intimidation of Hungary’s Roma

- Summary: Lega Nord (“Northern League,” a.k.a. Lega or the League) is a far-right populist Italian political party that rose to prominence in 2018 on policies of anti-immigration and “Italians First.”<sup>358</sup> Its leader, Matteo Salvini, views Italian culture and way of life as “under attack” and “at risk” due to mass immigration.<sup>359</sup> Ahead of Italy’s March 2018 elections, the League promised to deport 400,000 immigrants and instruct asylum courts to disregard all circumstances of an applicant’s journey to Italy.<sup>360</sup> The League received 17 percent of the vote in March 2018 parliamentary elections, and Salvini became Italy’s interior minister.<sup>361</sup> Marine Le Pen, leader of France’s far-right National Front political party, called the League’s victory “the reawakening of the peoples.”<sup>362</sup>

Umberto Bossi founded the League in the 1990s to represent northern Italians. He campaigned on the idea of gaining independence for a northern Italian region he called Padania. In the latter half of the twentieth century, the economic gap widened substantially between the agrarian south of Italy and the industrialized north, and consequently, many southern Italians immigrated to the north.<sup>363</sup> Bossi began to blame southern Italians for northern Italy’s economic hardships, regularly demeaning them as lazy parasites living off of hardworking northerners.<sup>364</sup> In 2012, then-League politician Donatella Galli posted on Facebook her desire for three of Italy’s volcanoes to destroy southern Italy. She later stated that southerners “should be placed in ovens.”<sup>365</sup>

Salvini joined the League's youth wing as a teenager.<sup>366</sup> He took over the party's leadership from Bossi in 2013.<sup>367</sup> In 2014, Salvini expanded the party's reach beyond Italy's northern region and targeted Italy as a whole. The international news organization The Local dubbed him "the rising star of the Italian right."<sup>368</sup> In May 2015 regional elections, the League received 20 percent of the vote in Tuscany. Salvini called the results "proof that the days are over when we were labeled as a crazy far-right party."<sup>369</sup>

Nonetheless, the League has maintained its populist positions, casting the European Union as a threat to Italy's sovereignty while blaming immigrants and minorities for diluting the Italian identity. The League believes that the European Union has harmed Italy's economy. Salvini has derided the euro as a "German currency,"<sup>370</sup> labeling it a "crime against humanity."<sup>371</sup> The League's manifesto calls for Italy to exit the European Union unless all relevant treaties are renegotiated to restore Italy's "full and legitimate sovereignty."<sup>372</sup> In 2009, Salvini called for "Milanese-only" train cars following reports of an increased immigrant population in Milan.<sup>373</sup> In September 2014, League politician Andrea Della Puppa posted a series of images to his Facebook account, including one of Adolf Hitler, suggesting that immigrants should be burned to death.<sup>374</sup>

In June 2018, Italy's Roma and Jewish communities condemned Salvini as racist after he called for a census of the Roma community in Italy. Critics compared the proposal to race laws under dictator Benito Mussolini.<sup>375</sup> Earlier in June, Salvini refused to allow a

Salvini attempted to collapse the Italian government in August 2019 by pulling his party from the ruling coalition. He had hoped to become prime minister himself in new elections. Instead, Prime Minister Giuseppe Conte pulled together a new coalition without the League. Salvini continues to serve in Italy’s parliament.<sup>377</sup> Salvini and the League have both seen their national poll numbers fall during the COVID-19 pandemic. In early June 2020, Salvini’s approval rating hovered around 30 percent while only 26 percent of Italians said they would vote for the League, decreasing from its 34 percent polling in Europe’s 2019 elections. Nonetheless, the League remained the single most popular party in Italy.<sup>378</sup>

League leader Matteo Salvini became Italy’s interior minister in June 2018 and served in that role until August 2019.<sup>380</sup>
- Recruitment and Propaganda: League founder Umberto Bossi castigated southern Italians and called for a separate northern Italian nation. When Salvini took control of the League in 2013, the party polled at 4 percent nationwide, below Italy’s electoral threshold. Salvini ended the League’s propaganda against southerners, instead promoting the idea of a united Italy that has been taken advantage of by the European Union. ### Les Identitaires

- Summary: Les Identitaires is a far-right anti-Muslim, anti-immigrant French group created in 2003 as Bloc Identitaire to defend the French identity from what it considered harmful foreign influences. The group changed its name in 2016, promising to be a "centre of agitation and training."<sup>389</sup> Les Identitaires members consider themselves to be patriots and nationalists rather than anti-Muslim or racist. Nonetheless, the group opposes globalization and believes that Muslim immigrants to Europe are invaders who threaten

European identity.<sup>390</sup> Les Identitaires' youth wing, Generation Identity, has spread to five other European regions outside of France.<sup>391</sup>

Les Identitaires has staged numerous demonstrations in and around France's majority Muslim areas in order to protest what it considers attacks on French values. In 2006, Bloc Identitaires launched a campaign to distribute soup to homeless people in predominately Muslim neighborhoods, although the soup was intentionally made with pork to exclude Muslims and Jews.<sup>392</sup> French authorities shut down the soup kitchens in February 2006, declaring that they intentionally discriminated against Muslims and Jews.<sup>393</sup>

In June 2010, Bloc Identitaire held a pork sausage party in Paris at the Arc de Triomphe. The event, which was originally planned to take place outside of a mosque, was moved after police banned the group from rallying outside of the mosque on grounds of maintaining public order. An estimated 7,000 people registered to attend through Facebook.<sup>394</sup> In 2011, the group staged a "march of pigs" protest in French neighborhoods with large Muslim populations. The Identitarians feasted on wine and pork, both of which are prohibited under Islamic dietary laws, claiming that such things would soon be illegal in France because of Muslim immigration.<sup>395</sup>

In 2007, Bloc Identitaire co-founder Philippe Vardon was fined and imprisoned for incitement to discrimination after the Identitarian Youth wing—which he led at the time—distributed pamphlets casting Muslim immigrants as rapists.<sup>396</sup>

National Action

- Summary: National Action is a British far-right, neo-Nazi, white supremacist group that emerged in 2013.<sup>418</sup> The group, which aims to enact its vision that “Britain should be for British people,”<sup>419</sup> has held rallies and demonstrations at which supporters have declared that “Hitler was right” and warned against “the disease of international Jewry,” which will eventually end “in the chambers”—referring to Nazi gas chambers.<sup>420</sup> During a 2014 demonstration in Liverpool, National Action members distributed pamphlets calling to “Cleanse Britain of parasites. The white man is on the march – white power.”<sup>421</sup> The British government designated National Action as a terrorist group in 2016, marking the first time that membership of a far-right group had been prohibited in the United Kingdom since World War II.<sup>422</sup>

National Action praised the June 2016 murder of Member of Parliament Jo Cox by the far-right ultra-nationalist Thomas Mair. National Action members reportedly adopted the extremist language that Mair used during his trial, calling for “death to traitors, freedom for Britain.” The phrase appeared on National Action’s website before the site was removed.<sup>423</sup>

British police reportedly arrested 22 members of National Action throughout 2016.<sup>424</sup> That December, then-U.K. Home Secretary Amber Rudd banned National Action, officially classifying the group as a terrorist organization and outlawing membership and support of the group. Rudd declared National Action to be “a racist, antisemitic and homophobic organization which stirs up hatred, glorifies violence and promotes a vile ideology...It has absolutely no place in a Britain that works for everyone.”<sup>425</sup> Despite the proscription, National Action has not disbanded. In January 2018, British police arrested six suspected National Action members. According to whistleblower Robbie Mullen during the suspects’ June 2018 trial, the group has maintained its organizational structure and continued to meet without the official label of National Action. He further described combat training camps where members learned hand-to-hand fighting.<sup>426</sup> Mullen described plans to kill a Labour Party parliamentarian and preparation for a so-called “white jihad.”<sup>427</sup>

Action member Jack Renshaw, former member Robbie Mullen testified that Christopher Lythgoe led the group and organized combat training.<sup>430</sup>

- Membership Size and Relevance: The membership size is not determined.
- Recruitment and Propaganda: National Action initially targeted students, particularly between the ages of 16 and 25. The group was “a general reaction to the malaise in the current scene of the British right,” according to one of its members.<sup>431</sup> An insider told the British Sun newspaper that meetings would attract about 30 “youngsters,” many of whom weren’t even old enough to drive or go to bars.<sup>432</sup> In June 2016, National Action held a Miss Hitler contest to raise awareness of female white supremacists. The identity of the Scottish woman who won the contest was concealed, but when asked by National Action’s website whom she’d like to kill, she responded that she would put German Chancellor Angela Merkel “in one of her camps and let her pet refugees do the rest.”<sup>433</sup>

In March 2018, British Member of Parliament Yvette Cooper accused YouTube of complicity for failing to remove a video of a National Action rally from 2016. Cooper flagged the video at least seven times with no action taken by YouTube.<sup>434</sup>

- Violent Activities: National Action has not been linked to specific violent attacks. Nonetheless, the group’s rhetoric threatens violence to initiate its belief that “Britain should be for British people,”<sup>435</sup> and some of its members allegedly attend military-style training camps in preparation for violence, where judo, kickboxing, and street fighting are reportedly taught.<sup>436</sup> During his 2018 trial, alleged National Action member Jack Renshaw admitted to buying a knife in order to kill Labour MP Rosie Cooper.<sup>437</sup>

- Summary: The Nationalist Social Club (NSC) is reportedly one of the largest and most active neo-Nazi groups in the United States and has established a presence in Germany, Hungary, and Bulgaria.<sup>445</sup> A German member identified only as Paolo has claimed NSC is in the beginning stages and trying to build up its network.<sup>446</sup> NSC was founded in December 2019 in Massachusetts and comprises small independent cells around the world.<sup>447</sup> NSC members believe they are in a state of war against non-Aryans, particularly Jews.<sup>448</sup> NSC's alleged goal is to create an underground resistance network against its ideological enemies.<sup>449</sup> To this end, NSC members train in physical combat and firearms.<sup>450</sup> NSC views itself as a protector of white people.<sup>451</sup>

NSC chapters act independently of each other and share a loose network affiliation. The group has no central hierarchy. Each chapter acts under its own guidance and rules.<sup>452</sup> The NSC maintains this informal structure to avoid infiltration. Chapter autonomy also allows each chapter to address individual regional needs and develop its own tactics.<sup>453</sup> Known NSC tactics include antagonizing social-justice protesters, vandalism, and posting stickers and other propaganda.<sup>454</sup> NSC members have joined right-wing and pro-police rallies where they have displayed Nazi flags and symbols, as well as engaged in physical

NSC's logo replaces the "S" in its initials with an SS lightning bolt. NSC's propaganda also includes the number 131 and at times refers to the group as NSC-131 or 131 Crew. The number correlates to the letters ACA for anti-communist action.<sup>463</sup>

NSC is active on multiple social media channels, such as Twitter, Telegram, and Instagram. CEP has identified at least three NSC Twitter accounts that have since been suspended. NSC's Telegram channels provide a contact person who refers potential recruits to their closest NSC chapter. Each chapter has its own objectives upon which it judges potential members.<sup>464</sup> NSC specifically targets white males for recruitment.<sup>465</sup>

- Violent Activities: NSC members have stockpiled weapons and undergone physical training for future confrontations.<sup>466</sup> In September 2020, German police raided multiple homes, including that of an NSC member, and seized "weapons and Nazi paraphernalia."<sup>467</sup>

Nordic Resistance Movement

- Summary: Formed by neo-Nazi nationalists in Sweden in 1997, the Nordic Resistance Movement (Nordiska motståndsrörelsen, or NRM) is a transnational, neo-Nazi organization with official chapters operating in Sweden, Finland, and Norway. The NRM also draws support from neo-Nazis in Denmark and Iceland, though the group has failed to establish formal branches in those countries.<sup>474</sup> A 2017 report by European anti-racism organization Expo named NRM as the primary force responsible for a rise in neo-Nazi activity in Sweden in 2016.<sup>475</sup>

The NRM subscribes to a nationalist socialist, or neo-Nazi, ideology that is avowedly anti-Semitic, anti-gay, anti-immigrant, pro-white, and pro-Hitler. The NRM has held numerous anti-immigration rallies, and has hung signs throughout Sweden, Finland, and Norway reading “Refugees Are Not Welcome.”<sup>476</sup> In its 2015 party platform “Our Path,” the NRM warns that the Nordic states—as well as the entire Western world—are controlled by the “global Zionist elite.”<sup>477</sup> The NRM thus seeks to “regain power” from that elite and unite the Nordic states into a “Nordic Nation” able to “assert itself militarily, economically and culturally.”<sup>478</sup>

NRM members reportedly receive martial arts training and are educated on how to respond if fighting arises in the streets.<sup>479</sup> In addition, the group previously sold a knife inscribed with the maxim “The struggle demands more than only words.”<sup>480</sup> In a 2016 interview, NRM-Sweden leader Simon Lindberg said that he joined the group because its members are “strong in the streets, they dare to fight back the scum.”<sup>481</sup> However, Swedish prosecutors believe that three NRM-Sweden members—charged in June 2017 in connection to three bombings on a far-left café and two refugee centers in November 2016 and January 2017—were “dissatisfied” that NRM leadership had not wanted to use violence “to the same extent” as the three men. Prosecutors believe that two of those men had received military training in Russia before returning to Sweden to carry out the bombings, though it is unclear from whom they received training.<sup>482</sup>

NRM-Sweden officially registered as a political party in July 2015 under the name “Nordiska motståndsrörelsen”—the same name used for the larger NRM-Sweden movement. The group was inspired to enter politics after one of its key members, Pär Öberg, was elected in 2014 as a write-in candidate for the Sweden Democrats party in the Ludvika municipality’s local elections.<sup>483</sup> However, NRM-Sweden is not believed to have made political gains, and the movement is reported to lend most of its efforts to extra-parliamentary activities, such as violence, intimidation, and crime.<sup>484</sup> Finland banned the NRM in November 2017, but the group has continued to stage demonstrations there while appealing the decision.<sup>485</sup>

Recruitment and Propaganda: In recent years, the NRM has capitalized on the influx of refugees from the Middle East and North Africa in an attempt to spread fear, recruit, and further its agenda. According to the anti-racism organization Expo, NRM-Sweden has grown more than one-third in size since the beginning of 2015 by advocating against Sweden’s open-door policy to Muslim asylum seekers through anti-immigration rallies and signs throughout Sweden, Finland, and Norway.<sup>499</sup> The NRM also produces manuals, stickers, leaflets, and flyers, which it distributes at rallies, on the streets, and in mailboxes.<sup>500</sup>

The NRM has noted that all of its funding comes from “member donations and sympathetic individuals and organizations.”<sup>501</sup> The NRM specifically requests donations through Frihetskamp, the news website owned and operated by the group’s Norwegian branch.<sup>502</sup>

NRM’s Twitter account had approximately 13,700 followers as of July 3, 2018.<sup>503</sup> Frihetskamp Media’s Twitter account had 729 followers, and its YouTube account had 651 subscribers and hosted more than 40 videos, which had collectively received more than 104,000 views.<sup>504</sup> NRM’s YouTube account had more than 11,600 subscribers and hosted more than 400 videos, which had collectively received more than 6.4 million views. - On January 25, 2017, Swedish authorities discovered an IED—which had failed to detonate—outside of a Gothenberg compound housing refugees. Authorities believed the incident was linked to the November 11, 2016, bombing at the Syndikaliskt Forum Kafe as well as the January 5, 2017, bombing of the refugee lodging center.<sup>509</sup> In June 2017, Swedish prosecutors charged three unnamed NRM-Sweden members in connection to the far-left café and refugee center bombings.<sup>510</sup>
- On January 5, 2017, individuals allegedly associated with NRM-Sweden detonated homemade bombs outside of a refugee lodging center in Gothenberg, injuring an immigration officer.<sup>511</sup>
- On November 11, 2016, individuals allegedly associated with NRM-Sweden detonated a bomb at the Syndikaliskt Forum Kafe in Gothenberg, though no one was injured or killed in the attack.<sup>512</sup>
- On December 17, 2013, at least 30 NRM-Sweden members carrying smoking flares attacked participants of a peaceful, anti-racism demonstration in the Stockholm suburb of Kärrtorp. Four people were injured in the ensuing clashes, which also resulted in the arrests of 28. In June 2014, a Swedish court sentenced four NRM-Sweden members, including spokesman Emil Hagberg, to between six and eight months in prison for instigating the December riots.<sup>513</sup>
- In July 2010, police arrested several NRM-Sweden members after they attacked guards during an NRM demonstration at a music festival in the Swedish city of Piteå.<sup>514</sup>

- Summary:

The Order of Nine Angles (ONA or O9A) is U.K.-based Nazi, Satanist occult group founded in the 1970s. The group reveres Adolf Hitler and imbues Nazi symbology with mystical meaning.<sup>521</sup> ONA heralds Nazi Germany as the pinnacle of societal development and deifies Adolf Hitler. The U.S. Department of Justice has noted ONA's "Satanic, anarchist, neo-fascist, neo-Nazi, and anti-Semitic beliefs."<sup>522</sup> ONA has affiliated groups in the United States, Australia, and Europe.<sup>523</sup>

ONA is an accelerationist group that seeks the "breakdown and the downfall of existing societies" and their replacement with "new tribal societies."<sup>524</sup> It believes society has become corrupted by Judeo-Christian beliefs.<sup>525</sup> ONA thus believes society must be destroyed and replaced with a new fascist order based on social Darwinism and Satanism, a Satanic Empire. The group views modern societal norms and morality as signs of decay.<sup>526</sup>

ONA promotes what it calls an esoteric philosophy focused on the hidden, inner nature of beings rather than the outer nature.<sup>527</sup> ONA intends to use its "Dark Tradition" to create a "new, more evolved, human species" centered on this new tribalistic society.<sup>528</sup> Unlike other neo-Nazi groups, ONA also supports violent jihadist terrorism, in line with its accelerationist philosophy to support the destruction of the current world order. In addition to its veneration of Hitler, the group has praised Osama bin Laden.<sup>529</sup> Some of its texts also employ Islamic terminology, though the group is firmly Satanist.<sup>530</sup>

ONA encourages its member to infiltrate military and Christian organizations to subvert them from within. Among the activities ONA promotes are pedophilia and sexual crimes, which the group views as methods of undermining society.<sup>531</sup> ONA members have been involved in several violent terrorist plots. In 2019, for example, a 16-year-old British boy from Durham, England, became the youngest individual in the country to be convicted of planning a terror attack. The boy was reportedly partially influenced by ONA.<sup>532</sup> In June 2020, American authorities arrested U.S. soldier Ethan Melzer, who was planning an attack on his own unit stationed in Italy. Melzer had been communicating online with members of ONA.<sup>533</sup>

ONA founder David Myatt is a former member of Combat 18 and a former leader of Britain's neo-Nazi National Socialist Movement (NSM). Myatt reportedly influenced NSM member David Copeland, who set off multiple nail bombs around London in the spring of 1999, killing three people and injuring 139 in the hope of starting a race war.<sup>534</sup> In 2006, Myatt converted to an extreme form of Islam and supported killing Muslim apostates. He claimed that the far right was incapable of bringing out societal revolution and Islam was the answer.<sup>535</sup>

ONA's influence can be seen in neo-Nazi groups such as the U.S.-based group Atomwaffen Division and its U.K.-based offshoot Sonnenkrieg Division.<sup>536</sup> Other far-right groups condemned AWD as a cult front for ONA. In January 2018, a former AWD member wrote online that the group had been infiltrated by Satanists. According to leaked chat transcripts, several AWD members resigned as of March 2018 because of the growing occult fixation, while others embraced the satanic imagery.<sup>537</sup> ONA founder Myatt wrote the book Hostia: Secret Teachings of the Order of Nine Angles, which details ONA's beliefs and was available through AWD's website. AWD officially disbanded in March 2020.<sup>538</sup>

In 2019, U.K. authorities separately arrested four teenagers who cited accelerationism and Satanism as their influences.<sup>539</sup> In March 2020, some British lawmakers began calling for ONA to be banned.<sup>540</sup> Those calls gained further traction three months later following the arrest of an ONA-linked U.S. soldier who was planning to attack his own military unit.<sup>541</sup> According to British Labour parliamentarian Yvette Cooper, ONA’s “combination of Nazi-Satanism, extreme violence and sexual abuse makes it particularly troubling and action needs to be taken to prevent them grooming and radicalizing other people.”<sup>542</sup>

- Website: <https://lapisphilosophicus.wordpress.com/>
- Social Media: Not determined.
- Leadership: David Myatt, a.k.a. Anton Long and Abdul-Aziz ibn Myatt, is the founder of ONA.<sup>543</sup> ONA claims Anton Long may or may not have been multiple people.<sup>544</sup> Richard Moul, a.k.a. Christos Beast, is said to have taken over the group’s leadership in the 1990s, resigned in 2001, and returned to ONA in 2008.<sup>545</sup> Moul disputes that he was ever a leader and claims he now rejects the group’s ideology.<sup>546</sup> Myatt claims to have left ONA but still maintains a relationship with the organization.<sup>547</sup> ONA’s central administration now appears to rotate.<sup>548</sup>
- Membership Size and Relevance: ONA does not maintain public membership rolls. It organizes into interconnected chapters while the central administration appears to rotate.

ONA has been linked to or inspired multiple terror plots.<sup>549</sup> ONA requires its recruits to self-initiate through violent and physically challenging acts.<sup>550</sup>

- Recruitment and Propaganda: ONA does not welcome recruits who seek out the organization. Instead, it claims that membership is earned through “a life-long commitment to personal, esoteric, and Aeonian change/development/evolution.”<sup>551</sup> ONA seeks recruits who share “similar, sinister, subversive interests, aims, and life-styles, together with the desire to co-operate when it is beneficial to them and the pursuit of our shared aims.”<sup>552</sup> ONA offers two methods to join: a guided and an unguided way. The unguided way asks potential recruits to immerse themselves in ONA texts and start living their lives according to ONA philosophies. The guided method is to seek out an ONA member and follow his guidance and training.<sup>553</sup>

ONA divides society into two groups, esoteric and mundane. Esoteric refers to the occult and those practicing it, primarily followers of ONA. Mundane refers to everybody else “who do not associate with our sinister tribes, our traditional nexions, or who do not share our sinister ethos, or our sinister way of life.”<sup>554</sup> ONA literature is replete with references to “esoteric” and “sinister,” words ONA uses as primary descriptions of its philosophies. ONA seeks to create “sinister Adepts” who practice the “sinister dialectic” in order to create its new societies.<sup>555</sup> ONA considers the word sinister as a replacement for satanic. While ONA is a satanic organization, it believes the word itself has been coopted by others who do not follow what ONA considers traditional Satanism. They thus use the word sinister to represent their form of what they consider traditional Satanism.<sup>556</sup>

ONA members, including founder David Myatt, have written numerous books and articles about ONA’s beliefs. However, the group has since shifted to focus its propaganda online through Telegram, Instagram, and other platforms.<sup>557</sup> ONA-related channels on these platforms include Rapewaffen Division Channel and Order of the 9 Rapes Chat.<sup>558</sup> U.S. Army Private Ethan Melzer allegedly communicated with ONA members through the Rapewaffen Division Channel to plan an attack on U.S. soldiers.<sup>559</sup> An “authorized” ONA blog on WordPress called Lapis Philosophicus has collected ONA written materials from 1985 through 2012. Lapis Philosophicus translates to the jewel of the alchemist, which a sorcerer or sorceress needs to use the Dark Arts to discover.<sup>560</sup>

ONA literature promotes subversive activities such as human sacrifice and the rape of women and children. ONA refers to human sacrifice as culling, which ONA claims is necessary and distinguishes ONA members from the mundane.<sup>561</sup> One piece of propaganda the group produced is called The Rape Anthology, a collection of ONA writings praising Hitler, Satan, and rape, while employing Islamic terminology and demonizing Jews and minorities. Some of the essays suggest that rape is necessary for the ascension of the Urbemensch (German for “superman”) and all should strive for “spiritual arousal from violent sexual rape.”<sup>562</sup> Another claims Allah created HIV/AIDS to allow the “phallic warrior to permanently leave his mark on the world.”<sup>563</sup>

- Violent Activities:

- In October 2018, a 16-year-old British boy from Durham, England, declared himself an accelerationist and began searching for targets for a terror attack. The boy was reportedly partially influenced by ONA. The boy initially followed the white supremacist group National Action, which was outlawed in 2016. Police arrested the boy in March 2019. Later that year, he became the youngest individual in the country to be convicted of planning a terror attack.<sup>564</sup>
- In May 2020, American authorities broke up a plot by U.S. soldier Ethan Melzer, who was planning an attack on his own unit while it was stationed in Italy. Melzer began communicating online with members of ONA and the affiliated Rapewaffen Division in April and provided details on his unit’s movements and planned redeployment to Turkey. Authorities discovered the plot in May and took Melzer into custody. He confessed on May 30 and was arrested in June. Melzer reportedly joined ONA in 2019, a year after enlisting in the U.S. Army.<sup>565</sup>

“(1) to use our Dark Tradition to create sinister Adepts and, over a long period of causal Time, aid and enhance and create that new, more evolved, human species of which genuine Sinister Adepts may be considered to be the phenotype;

“(2) to use the sinister dialectic (and thus Aeonick Magick and genuine Sinister Arts) to aid and enhance and make possible entirely new types of societies for human beings, with these new societies being based on new tribes and a tribal way of living where the only law is that of our kindred honour;

Sonnenkrieg Division

- Summary:

Sonnenkrieg Division (SKD) is the British chapter of the U.S.-based Atomwaffen Division (AWD). AWD is a neo-Nazi organization that seeks the creation of a National Socialist government through a violent “white revolution,” and believes that a race war is inevitable.<sup>574</sup>

SKD follows a neo-Nazi ideology promoted by James Mason, a former American Nazi Party member and a follower of cult leader Charles Manson.<sup>575</sup> During the 1980s, Mason wrote a series of pro-Manson and pro-Nazi newsletters that he called Siege and later compiled into a book of the same name.<sup>576</sup> Users on the now-defunct fascist web forum IronMarch formed AWD after discovering Siege. They based AWD's ideology on Mason's ideas of autonomous terror cells fighting a guerilla war against "the system."<sup>577</sup>

SKD formed in 2018 as a British offshoot of AWD.<sup>578</sup> Private messages exchanged online by SKD group members in 2018 labeled the United Kingdom's Prince Harry a "race traitor" for marrying a mixed-race woman and called for him to be shot.<sup>579</sup> In other private online messages, alleged leader Andrew Dymock called for police officers to be raped and killed.<sup>580</sup> Group members have also called for white women who date non-white men to be hanged.<sup>581</sup>

Dymock was arrested in December 2018 on terror offenses. Both Dymock and SKD member Oskar Dunn-Koczorowski formerly belonged to System Resistance Network, an alias of the banned British white supremacist group National Action.<sup>582</sup> In June 2019, Dunn-Koczorowski and Michal Szewczuk were imprisoned for terror offenses.<sup>583</sup>

In 2015, members of the far-right IronMarch online forum formed the neo-Nazi group Atomwaffen Division (AWD). AWD was linked to multiple murders around the United States as well as racist, homophobic, and anti-Semitic protests. On January 2, 2018, AWD member Sam Woodward allegedly murdered gay, Jewish college student Blaze

Bernstein, an act AWD celebrated.<sup>584</sup> In 2015, AWD members republished Siege and began to popularize it online through the creation of an online subculture called Siege Culture, an umbrella brand publicized across social media, podcasts, and chatrooms dedicated to Mason's book.<sup>585</sup> AWD disbanded in March 2020.<sup>586</sup> That July, a group of former AWD leaders announced the reorganization of AWD into the National Socialist Order (NSO). NSO leaders claimed they learned from the mistakes of AWD, pointing to a lack of ideological cohesion. The NSO leaders further claimed they had built the NSO with a new leadership dedicated to creating an "Aryan, National Socialist world by any means necessary."<sup>587</sup>
